WATERJETS UNLIMITED PURCHASES NEW FACILITIES

Long Island, New York – Waterjets Unlimited has announced the company's expansion with the relocation to their new facility at 159 Comac Street, Ronkonkoma, New York. The new building will also serve as Waterjets' new corporate offices as well as a state-of-the-art production and manufacturing facility featuring humidity and temperature control to ensure optimum performance of the company's machinery.

Waterjets has moved into the new facility and is in full swing production. Plans have begun to supplement production with the addition of another waterjet machine.

"We are pleased to have made this transition into the new location" said Mark Grindel, President of Waterjets Unlimited, "Now we have plenty of room for future growth in order to consistently provide our customers with the quality service and finished products that they rely on us for."

Waterjets Unlimited is a leading provider of material cutting services, cutting complex and intricate shapes using water pressurized up to 60,000 psi and forced through a small nozzle. Waterjet Cutting is ideal for a wide range of materials from soft foams and plastics to stone and hardened steels. For high volume production or even single piece prototypes, Waterjets has proven to be one of the highest quality firms in the business.
